(3) Foreshadowing: Jim Morrison uses Foreshadowing to hint a key plot development in the novel The 'haunting of 124': The novel begins with the statement that '124' was 'spiteful' which suggests the presence of ghost or supernatural power. Early references to 'Beth's crawling 'already baby' foreshadow the later revelation that she has killed her daughter to protect her.

(4) Repetition: Morrison uses repetition to emphasize key ideas. 'Beloved she is my daughter. Throughout the novel the characters often repeat names like 'Beloved' or 'Baby Suggs'.

(5) Personification: Morrison often personifies objects or abstract ideas to enhance their symbolic significance. 'The house at 124 Blue Stone Road' is personified as 'spiteful'. Paul D's heart is referred to be as a 'fob' 'tabacco 'tin' which suggests that is
